WINE MAKING

Harvest when the berries are at their optimum ripeness. Pneumatic pressing under low pressure, cold settling of the juice. Long fermentation in underground tank with temperature control, and with partial skin-contact maceration. Ageing on fine lees. Bottling in the springtime, depending on the harvest.

TASTING - WINE & FOOD PAIRING

Nose: intensity, white flowers. Freshness in the mouth with salty and mineral notes, citrus, with great delicacy. To serve between 8°C and 9°C with mussels, oysters, shells, grilled fish, sauerkraut.

PACKAGING

75cl “flute” bottle, boxes of 6 bottles (or 12 for professionals).

Domaine Raphaël Luneau, R de la Grange is a family vineyard of 30 hectares, located around 20 km at the South-East of Nantes, in the heart of the AOP Muscadet Sèvre et Maine, in the Loire Valley. Today, Raphaël carries on the family tradition and manages the vineyard with his father Rémy, following eight generations of wine growers. From the vines to the wine making, they know how to combine traditional and modern methods, in order to produce high quality wines, particularly fruity and well-balanced, while respecting the biodiversity and the different terroirs. The wines reflect the Luneau family's experience and are regularly awarded during national competitions.
